Gartochoer residents resist rubbish rat

THE residents of Gartochoer Terrace in Glasgow are fighting to stop ruthless businessman William Combe establishing a waste disposal site in their quiet street.

Combe and his heavies have threatened residents with violence, tried to run over residents, photographed local children and smashed in a resident's door.

Illegal surely? But money talks. Combe has a £180,000 waste disposal contract with Glasgow City Council. The police support Combe, arresting and harrasing locals. When a mother complained about the police cutting down her children's tree swing, and when 2 parents objected to Combe photographing their 6 year old daughter, the police charged all 3 residents under the 1937 Youth and Child Protection Act!

NOXIOUS

Combe already operates a Waste Disposal site elsewhere in Glasgow, notorious for noxious smells. He is selling this site. Residents fear he plans to move to Gartochoer. Combe claims he only wants a site for his mobile home! But he has cut down mature trees, built units, including one with 6 sinks, and erected CCTV, a spiked industrial fence and razor wire. Skip lorries run into the site. Diesel and oil spills from the drains. What's the Planning Department doing?

Large lorries tearing past homes, noxious waste next door - strange how it's always working class communities paying the price of profit.

But this east end street of 14 houses is mounting amazing resistance. Twice in early June cement-filled fridge freezers mysteriously appeared in the roadway, blocking Combe's lorries.

On 29 June 12-14 residents were joined by 5 supporters from Faslane Peace Camp, who blockaded the entrance to Combe's site. 202(!) police officers arrived and arrested 6 protestors, hurting one badly. At court in September police lies were exposed and all, but one who got Community Service, were acquitted.

On 29 July residents and Peace Campers again blocked Combe's lorries, for over 8 hours, a peace camper perching precariously on a rope above the road. Fire fighters showed solidarity, refusing to remove him.

In early September Combe's lorries were stopped by a strange apparition - paint pots dangling from the Gartochoer Terrace trees. Police cut the ropes suspending the paint pots - and covered themselves and their cars in paint!

On 3 October new fencing sprung up along Gartochoer Terrace, stopping Combe's lorries, while allowing residents' cars to pass. The struggle continues!

The Gartochoer residents appeal for support, especially people to turn up.

East Timor

SO, the UN peacekeeping forces have finally arrived in East Timor. Yippee. But what is really going on?

The fact is that major capitalist powers - particularly the US, UK and Australia - have so much financial interest in upholding the Indonesian Empire that an independent East Timor, let alone a revealing of western coercion in all of this, would be a bloody embarrassment if the real facts were ever to emerge. Pro-actively, the East Timorese have been an inconvenient and entirely dispensable commodity for the last twenty five years. The strategic importance of Indonesia as a linchpin of global capitalism in South East Asia is far more significant for Clinton, Blair and Howard.

What is really going on?

America backed General Suharto in 1965 to overthrow the president Sukarno. Half a million Indonesians died in the coup. The payback for the US were trade links and military deals, such as permission for US submarines to patrol Indonesian waters and monitor anything that wasn't pro- Uncle Sam.

The Indonesian invasion of East Timor was endorsed by many of the western powers; Gerald Ford negotiated with Suharto for the invasion to commence only after he had flown back to the US from Jakarta. In 1976, Henry Kissinger, through the US Ambassador to the UN Patrick Moynihan, prevented any UN action regarding the atrocities in East Timor- by which time tens of thousands of innocent, virtually unarmed Timorese had been murdered.

Inactivity on East Timor led to many lucrative trade deals with Indonesia, notably the Timor Gap treaty whereby Australia and Indonesia carved up the Timor Sea's vast oil and gas reserves between them. Unsurprisingly, in 1985 Australia recognised East Timor as an official province of Indonesia.

Mumia Must Live!

24th APRIL, commemorating Mumia's birthday, thousands gathered on the streets all around the world to stop Mumia's execution, in a demo called "MILLIONS FOR MUMIA" (Black US activist Mumia Abu-Jamal was fitted up for the murder of a cop in 82). In the States, dockers from the International Longshore Workers Union went on strike in every West Coast Port for 10 hours. In Brazil, 10,000 teachers struck for 2 hours.

Mumia's next battle in the courts starts in October 99. Meanwhile Mumia's health is deteriorating very fast.

Biotech Busting

THE summer of 99 saw grassroots resistance to the genitix menace intensify with tactics ranging from crop trashing, office occupations and supermarket actions, combined with a successful court battle by Friends of the Earth which found crop trials of oil-seed rape illegal under the governments own guidelines.

In May biotech giants Zeneca's AGM was occupied and disrupted and the Nuffield Institute who released reports on the benefits of GM had their offices occupied with the help of the INTERCONTINENTAL CARAVAN, who also linked up with a crop squat in Essex as part of their mission to highlight global resistance to trans-national bullies.

STRIKES ACROSS SOUTH AFRICA

A MILLION teachers and public employees from COSATU affiliates (Confederation of South African Trade Unions) took strike action in late August. Demonstrations against the restructuring of the public sector have been taking place around the country for 2 months, including strikes on 29th and 30th July to demand a 10% pay rise against the 6.3-6.8 per cent offered by President Thabo Mbeki's Administration.

These strikes, a severe strain for the alliance between ANC (African National Congress) and Trade Unions, mark a new stage of post-apartheid South Africa. Unions target is the ANC's macro-economic programme based on "budget deficits", constraints on wage increases for public servants, cuts in public employees, privatisation of public services (in particular water and electricity), rising costs of basic necessities and services; a programme meeting more the needs of banks, managers and the rich, than those of workers. (a-infos-d@lists.ta 8-9-99 and 23-9-99).

• Enraged by persistent inequality in South Africa, a campaign: Water for All involving unions and community groups from April '99 is pledged to pressurise the Government to supply all households with at least 50 litres per day before charges are levied

FLOOD OF PROTEST

THE people of the Narmada Valley, India, have been fighting the now two thirds completed Narmada Dam project for twelve years. Tribal peoples, villagers, small farmers and activists have united in their struggle to resist the flooding of their communities. In August thousands of valley dwellers rallied to protest and make devotional offerings to the river. Seven people went on hunger strike in April for eleven days until taken to hospital by police to be force fed. Many people have been subjected to hundreds of repeated arrests and police violence. The Indian Govt. is refusing compensation or resettlement to anyone. Many people have vowed to stay in their homes with their children to die if the waters rise.

JUSTICE DAY

LAST August, families friends and supporters commemorated Prisoners' Justice Day outside Woodhill prison in Milton Keynes. The event, held every year on August 10th, remembers many deaths in prison each year, through suicide or neglect by prison officers. This year had a special significance as the demonstration demanded the closure of the closed supervision centre or control unit at the jail. [ABC]

Unbroken spirit

6.30am 12 August - 150 riot cops, armed police and a helicopter, evicted 121 Railton Road, Brixton's historic anarchist centre, after 6,752 days of occupation.

On 16 September 121 was auctioned. 15 protestors handed "Good Luck" cards to potential bidders, reminding them of the squat's political history, its armed eviction, and emphasising that to buy 121 was to buy "trouble".

The spirit of South London squatters is unbroken. Buildings are being continuously opened as homes and to host info shops, cafes, cinemas and workshops. Class war is waged against gentrification. Local community links have been maintained, as struggles continue against cuts to Lambeth libraries, schools, childcare, and playgrounds.

A WORLD TO WIN

War on Civilians

THE British and US governments are waging undeclared war on Iraq. Almost daily air raids hit civilians. Sanctions have killed over a million Iraqi children. Groups like Voices in the Wilderness, and Solidarity Through Active Resistance in Penzance, are opposing this state murder.

People are defying the sanctions by posting medical supplies to Iraq. Voices in the Wilderness delegates have personally visited Iraq and successfully delivered medical supplies, despite possible legal action. Outrage

People marched in Johannesburg, South Africa on 3 October to "voice their outrage on violence against women." The march retraced the steps of a woman who 2 weeks earlier had been raped then burnt in the face with a hot iron. Meanwhile the Advertising Standards Authority banned an anti rape commercial from TV.

Swedish Police Violence

350 people participated in a Reclaim the Streets party in Stockholm on September 18th which was broken up by over 100 police. 243 people were arrested and many were brutally beaten. A demonstration a week later at the same time/place against the police violence was attended by 2000 people.

Anarchists in Parliament

On June 4th, Russian anarchists blocked the exit of the parliament chamber, displaying a banner "Sex, Money, Power" and threw leaflets to media and bystanders. [kireev@glasnet.ru] Elsewhere workers in Yasnogorsk won a long and violent struggle against their bosses, while schoolstudents in St. Petersburg occupied a school due to be shut down.

Lithuanian greens are campaigning against a World Bank funded airport construction at the Nida airport in Curonian Spit national park, including an action on May 19th in Vilnius.

Utilising a law of "eminent domain" which allows Government takeover of land on the pretense of public use, Mayor Gulliani in New York has enraged the More gardens! Coalition of 700 small community plots, united against plans to sell the sites to 'developers'. Action by the Garden Guerrillas has confronted the Mayor with giant sunflowers & tomatoes.

The other Brazil

Almost 100,00 protestors besieged government offices in Brasilia in late August. In September, landless peasants marched on the capital. Strikes and protests by metalworkers, health service workers, bank employees, oil workers and teachers opposed marketisation policies which impose austerity on the downtrodden.

Cross and parochial

An eviction of an occupied community centre at Bishopton, Bristol was resisted by local activists against plans of the Parochial Church Council.

Prince's Park

A 3 acre inner-city green space threatened by developers in Liverpool is being defended by treehouses and other obstructionism. Info 0403-176279.

Blocking Warheads

LOCAL Buchalyvie residents & anti-nuclear protestors highlighted the delivery of Trident warheads to the Royal Naval base at Coulport on the Clyde estuary despite huge numbers of Police. This protest on the Stirling to Balloch road coincided with the July opening of the Scots Parliament. In Horsely, Northumbria on 4th July activists forced a 45 minute delay.

Workers Victory

Brian Higgins, UCATT activist in Northampton, is free from legal harassment after the UCATT hierarchy attempted to muzzle him. In Dublin, Limerick and elsewhere wildcat strikes by bricklayers in winter '98/99 freed jailed activists, William Rodgers and Dave McMahon who had disobeyed a Court ruling to refrain from picketing sub-contractors.

"An end tae violence"

Hundreds of women, children & men marched through Edinburgh on 2nd October to oppose male violence against women & children, demanding that the Scottish Parliament provide proper funding for Womens Aid refuges

Sparks fly!

Daily protests have erupted in Dundee in late August, after 28 electricians were sacked after protesting against Balfour Beatty's sacking of two workers on the sick. Scabs have been recruited. Cleansing workers, in solidarity refused to uplift rubbish

Sacked for Chapping a Door

Two Unison Stewards in Glasgow Council have been sacked for knocking on a door. 27 other members were given final written warnings after they had been given permission to use their own time to show support to Social Work Convenor Roddy Slorach at his disciplinary hearing. Unison, have blocked any strike action in support of these workers despite a successful ballot. Meanwhile, Unison has suspended Slorach from his post of Convenor (see CI52). If only Unions could fight the ruling class with the enthusiasm they have to attack activists!

Cooking the books

Skychefs, a division of Lufthansa at Heathrow airport sacked the entire workforce 6 hours into a 24 hour strike in November '98. Since then a 24 hour picket has been maintained by workers: mostly asian women. The T&G Union connived in the new pay & conditions in excess of new working guidelines.

Scotia's Open Cast?

A recent government white paper stated (Scotland) "has the capacity and current mineral planning climate" to produce 75% of UK output. Combine this with a history of 87% of applications being accepted in Scotland and only 11% in England, with exports over 60% of what is dug up, a damaging trend that demands fierce opposition. THE SOUTH ALSO RESISTS

PEOPLE from Colombia have been struggling for decades. On 3 April the indigenous community of U'wa (North West) won its struggle against the US oil multinational OXY that decided, at its AGM, not to continue its business in the whole area.

The repression against anarchist groups has been increasing. People are murdered, jailed, harassed, searched and followed. 20 million people went on strike, in early September, against the Government's austerity plan. Despite army and paramilitary repression, strikers brought the country to a standstill, with massive disruption in all major cities and pitched battles with security forces.

President Pastrana has promised Spain, U.S.A. and Japan "total guarantees" for their businesses. Spain is denying asylum to Colombian citizens. U.S.A. is sending more troops, preparing a full scale invasion under the cover of the War on the Drugs, making Colombia "safe for democracy". Globalisation, again, is making the conflict worse, rather than creating real solutions.

CHIAPAS

IN June '99, two people walked through the gates of the Nestle factory in Fawdon (Tyneside, England) and climbed onto the roof, hanging a banner reading: "Nestle: Out of Mexico". Supporters entered the factory site to speak to workers. The entrance was blockaded with a banner reading: "Solidarity is strength".

WELCOME TO THE UK

THE Immigration and Asylum Bill has passed its third reading in parliament. It is clearly intended to make refugees' stay in this country as unpleasant as possible.

They will be dispersed across the country and forced to live off vouchers worth only 70% of income support levels. Refusal to accept allocated accommodation will result in homelessness and destitution. The voucher system, apart from restricting their choices in spending, is like making them wear the word "asylum seeker" tattooed on their forehands and will increase discrimination.

There are many other disempowering clauses: if an asylum seeker loses their claim, the Appellate Authority can impose a fine not only on the asylum seeker but also on their representative (lawyer, immigration adviser). All too easily an asylum seeker can be detained by an immigration officer, with little opportunity to challenge this decision.

Nestle is the major investor in the food sector in Mexico.

The Easton Cowboys, a Sunday football team from Bristol, made history this May by being the first team from outside Mexico to play the Zapatista rebels in Chiapas, despite a huge army presence.

The National Autonomous University of Mexico, has been the centre of a student strike against the introduction of tuition fees.

As well as 4 strikes and occupation of the campus, they have demonstrated outside the Stock Exchange. They have made links with other struggles, including the Zapatistas, the lecturers union, and electrical workers. The students have demanded changes to the curriculum. Students have been kidnapped, beaten and threatened with death.

Repression in Chiapas is still severe. On 6th February two men from La Mendoza and Diez de Abril were "disappeared" by the Mexican military. They have been kept incommunicado and tortured. The men are still in custody (as of 26-9-99). Protests to: Mexican Embassy, 27 East 39th street, New York, NY 10016, USA.

In July, the army fired on 40 EZLN (Zapatistas) support bases when they were trying to reconnect the water service cut by the army. (Think Globally Aug 99, West Country Activist June 99, Schnews 230, a-infos- <http://www.ainfos.ca.org>)

In the meantime, some Dover residents and several local rags, have done their bit to support the government in their aim to disperse asylum seekers. When fights broke out between locals and refugees, the BBC showed a local skinhead who claimed to have been attacked by a Yugoslavian, "totally unprovoked". No refugees were asked to comment, but Home Office Minister Lord Bassan concluded: "The town is overcrowded".

Two concessions, fought for by campaigners, have been made in the new bill. For unmarried partners, the required period of cohabitation prior to immigration has been reduced from 4 to 2 years. After immigration there is still a probationary period before independent settlement is granted. The other concerns people whose residency depends on their partner's. If they want to stay in the UK but leave their partner because of domestic violence before the

PUERTO REAL : NO HOLDING BACK

IN Puerto Real's Shipyard (Cadiz, Spain) the management is employing more people coming from ETTs (low wages job agencies), more inexperienced workers and sacking workers for no reason.

In April the management gave the sack to two workers and no firm response from the big unions was given. C.N.T. reacted by organising general assemblies where the workers from the auxiliary industry were also called. 3000 workers got together and decided to stop working 2 hours every Wednesday and Friday. At the start the two big unions agreed but after a while they quit and tried to stop the workers actions.

C.N.T. again proposed to continue with the actions and received the support of most of the workers. This time the stoppages have been taking place from noon until the end of the working day. The actions include blocking the traffic with burning barricades on the main access road, and leafleting.

On May 1st, Nigerian Marcus Omofuma was killed during a forced deportation in Austria. He was chained, handcuffed and his mouth was taped shut by the escorting policemen on the plane so the other passengers wouldn't be disturbed. He suffocated.

AS the leaders of the world's richest countries met at the G8 Summit in Koln, Germany on June 18th, people world-wide took part in simultaneous opposition, action and carnival in about 30 countries. City Rocked June 18th in the City of London was brilliant as 10,000 people reclaimed the streets and took action against many businesses. Many fought the violent police.

Morning saw road blockades and a Critical Mass of 600 cyclists. 40 invaded the TUC to expose Union co-operation with capital. Reeds closed for the day after an anti New Deal picket. KPMG Auditors, used by Nestle, Pepsi, ICI, Zeneca, etc, were occupied.

8000 gathered at Liverpool St station for the Carnival against Capital. Upper Thames St - and other streets - were reclaimed as sound systems played.

Demonstrators broke into the London International Financial Futures and Options Exchange and smashed computers, mirrors and windows. Files and furniture sailed into the street.

Two MacDonalds and a Mercedes Benz showroom suffered significant damage. Several banks were occupied or damaged. Plus lots more!

Timorese (population in 1975 was 600,000) have had extensive military training and arming from Britain, the US and Australia. Very recently, UK defence secretary George Robertson endorsed the Kopassus Commander, General Prabowo ('an enlightened officer (on) human rights').

Many of the Timorese Militia are, in fact, the Indonesian Army. In January 1999 the Army and the Militia launched Operation Total Clean Up, its objective to utterly wipe out the Timorese Independence Movement. CAFOD (the Catholic Association for Overseas Development) estimates 20,000 Timorese deaths this year. This is the latest move in Indonesia's 'scorched earth' policy, spear-headed by defence minister General Wiranto. In April, Admiral Dennis Blair, US commander in chief in the Pacific, assured Wiranto of continued US backing.

So what are the UN peacekeeping forces actually going to do in East Timor? On arrival in East Timor on Sunday 19th September Major-General Peter Cosgrove, the Australian overall commander of the UN force in East Timor, RESISTANCE erupted in Indonesia itself in mid/late September. Workers, the poor and students acted to oppose the military's new repressive powers.

congratulated the Indonesian military for its 'first class' assistance. Covertly, the Indonesian and western powers need to work in tandem to preserve their mutual intention: to ensure East Timor remains sublimated to Jakarta and the west's business interests.

In the grand name of justice, democracy and, more disgustingly, human rights, a clutch of people will be scapegoated for the atrocities, but no significant broker will be held ultimately responsible- after all, that would be Jakarta, Britain, USA and Australia, and they're not going to admit to anything, are they?
